Ike Vetoes Farm Bill, Will Explain Action

"Goes on Air at 9 p. m. to Discuss His Rejection"

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today vetoed the farm bill.

He will go on the air at 9 p. m. (CST), to explain his rejection of the measure which becomes through his veto, a major issue in the election campaign.

In his veto message, Eisenhower told the lawmakers the high price support bill "would do harm to every agricultural region of the country and also to the interests of consumers."

The bill would return farm price supports to 90 per cent of parity for one year, junking the administration's flexible support system.

Congressional backers of the measure conceded there was no chance for enactment of the bill over the veto.

This would require a two-thirds vote to override the President.

Eisenhower's message, sent to the House since the farm bill originated there, announced the administration is taking four actions under existing law "to improve farm income now."

They are:

1. Price supports on five basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts—will be set at a level of at least 82½ per cent of parity.

This, Eisenhower said, should insure national averages of wheat at $2 a bushel, corn at $1.50 a bushel, and rice at $4.50 per 100 pounds. Price estimates for cotton and peanuts were not given.

2. For this year, the support price of manufacturing milk will be increased to $3.25 per 100 pounds. The support price of butterfat will be increased to 53.6 cents a pound.

Manufacturing milk is that used in making butter, cheese, ice cream and other manufactured dairy products as distinguished from milk sold for beverage purposes.

3. More than 400 million dollars of Agriculture Department funds "where assistance will be constructive," will be used to strengthen the prices of perishable farm commodities for the year beginning July 1.

4. Finally, Eisenhower urged the lawmakers to enact his soil bank plan "as promptly as possible... before next fall's seeding for next year's crops."

Judgment for $27,175 Given in Local Court

Two cases were disposed of in Hempstead Circuit Court over the weekend before recessing until Wednesday, May 18.

A jury awarded James Lattier, 30, judgment of $27,175 against Leo Compton and Hope Transfer Co. The judgment was for personal injuries resulting when a bus, driven by Lattier and a truck belonging to Hope Transfer Co., collided on South Main Street.

In other action a jury dismissed a personal damage suit brought by Lucy Faucett against Paul Massey and Fuller Lumber Co. This too involved an accident.

Rulings in State Supreme Court

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today handed down these decisions:

Arkansas Power & Light Co. vs. Arkansas Public Service Commission, appeal from Pulaski Circuit Court, affirmed.

Letha S. Omohundro vs. Saline County, Saline Circuit Court, affirmed.

Elnora Graham and Hazel Raffety Lemons vs. Virgil Hill and May Graham, Jefferson Probate Court, affirmed.

Bernice A. Gardner vs. Melvyn J. Gardner, Pulaski Chancery Court, affirmed.

Bessie Ball vs. Ernest Orval Messmore, Searcy Chancery Court, affirmed.

Joe Slade and others vs. G. P. Gammill and others, Union Chancery Court, affirmed.

Court Refuses AP&L Request for Rate Hike

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today turned down Arkansas Power & Light Co.'s request for a rate increase of around $4,200,000 a year.

When the order becomes final, Arkansas Power & Light will have to pay back to its customers around eight million dollars that it has collected in higher rates since July 1, 1954. These rates have been charged under a bond guaranteeing possible refunds.

Today's decision, with one justice dissenting in part, affirmed the Arkansas Public Service Commission and Pulaski Circuit Court. The lower court also had refused to disturb the commission order denying the requested rate increase.

While the case decided today was pending, AP&L filed a new rate increase application. In the second case the utility asked for an added increase of around one million dollars a year. That meant the utility was seeking an overall increase of around $5,200,000 a year.

The PSC also rejected the second proposed increase, which unlike the first has not been collected under bond. An appeal in the second case has been taken to Pulaski Circuit Court.

AP&L filed its first increase application on May 27, 1954. It became an issue in the heated governor's campaign of that year when

Premier of Bulgaria Quits Under Fire

LONDON, (UP) — Bulgarian Premier Vukko Chervenkov has resigned under fire for his Stalinist beliefs, Sofia radio announced today.

The national assembly meeting in the Bulgarian capital adopted an agenda calling for consideration of a successor to the 56-year-old peasant's son who became the first top Communist to fall from power under the new anti-Stalin line.

His resignation was accepted by the Bulgarian parliament. Chervenkov's downfall became apparent when the Bulgarian Communist party bitterly criticized him last week for "errors," and imitating the Stalinist "cult of the individual," Chervenkov, who took over control of Bulgaria in 1950 following the death of Vasil Kolarov, was regarded as the most pro-Russian of all Bulgarian politicians.

17 Killed, 200 Hurt as Tornado Hits Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP) — A tornado swirling and twisting through the outskirts of Birmingham killed at least 17 persons, injured more than 200 and left 400 persons homeless.

A Red Cross official said the winds last night destroyed more than 100 houses clustered on hills west and north of this industrial city. Hundreds of houses received lesser damage.

"We've counted 17 bodies and there may be others," said Roscoe Whitley, Red Cross director here. Most of the dead were Negroes.

Most of the dead and injured were at McDonald's Chapel, a suburb of 3,000 population just outside the northwestern city limits. Winds also lashed Sandusky, New Georgia and Sayreton, other suburban areas.

Fire engines joined the confusion at McDonald's Chapel when fire broke out in some of the ruined houses.

Approximately 150 persons were admitted to Birmingham hospitals. Some were treated and released but most were confined for treatment.

Whitley said an emergency ward had been set up in a union hall in Ensley, an industrial suburb, where 30 of the less seriously injured were admitted.

The awesome roar of the approaching storm gave sufficient warning for many to take shelter before their houses were blown to splinters.

Trial of Man Who Killed 44 Is Underway

DENVER (UP) — Defense attorneys prepared to offer a motion to dismiss murder charges against John Gilbert Graham today after the opening of his trial for the alleged airplane dynamite bombing that killed 44 persons, including his own mother.

Graham, 24, who is charged specifically with murder in the death of his mother for her insurance in the crash of a United Air Lines DC6B airliner near Longmont, Colo., last Nov., arrived at the city-county building at 9:20 a. m. MST in shackles and heavily guarded by a squad of a dozen deputy sheriffs and policemen.

The actual beginning of his trial in the court of District Judge Joseph M. McDonald was delayed a half hour until 10 a. m. MST because of routine arrangements of criminal cases that had been scheduled earlier.

He reminded that May 1 was the deadline for contestants, and to date only ten persons had registered. They are:

O. L. Rosenbaum, Fulton; E. H. Hubbard, Patmos; N. M. Rosenbaum, Fulton; Aubrey Goodwin, Rosston; Lafayette Galyean, RDP; Felton Galyean, RDP; H. M. Dunlap, RDP; Shep Jackson, RDP; E. O. Lafferty, Patmos; and W. H. Ratliff.

Watermelon contest rules are available at the chamber of commerce office, and are given to each person who registers.

The $1000.00 cash award for the largest melon has been offered by W. F. Nelson, Inc., of San Diego, Calif.

To stimulate more interest, the chamber of commerce has offered $200.00 for the second largest melon.

Corie Stewart Quits Teaching After 33 Years

Announcement of the retirement next month of Mrs. Corie Stewart, native of Hope, after 33 years as a teacher in the public schools of Arkansas, has been made at Jonesboro where she is principal of the West Elementary School. She will be honored with a special ceremony by Jonesboro folks May 7.

Mrs. Stewart, the former Corie Dudley, is a sister-in-law of E. P. Stewart, a sister of Henry S. Dudley, and aunt of Edwin Stewart, all of Hope.

Currently she is in St. Bernard's Hospital at Jonesboro for treatment of a strained knee ligament, but from what she told the press when announcing her retirement as a teacher she means to continue the active life. "I'm not going to sit down," she said; "I'm going to see things. I will give me some thing to do and I can set my own pace."

Mrs. Stewart was born in Hope, attended Ouachita Baptist College, and began her teaching career in Hope in 1904. In 1906 she married Warner H. Stewart.

Upon his death in 1918 she resumed teaching at Saratoga, this county. In 1923 she moved to Jonesboro where she is principal of the North Elementary School, later became principal of the South Elementary School, and went to the West Elementary School in 1927, becoming its principal in 1940 — from which post she is retiring in May.

Board of Rivers and Harbors in Washington to Hear Both Sides on Millwood April 25

(From Texarkana Gazette) The report on Millwood Dam and the upstream dams will be considered April 25, 1956 by the Board of Rivers and Harbors in Washington, D. C.

Delegations from this area are expected to be on hand for the hearing to express their views concerning the "dry" Millwood with upstream reservoirs and the "wet" Millwood with upstream reservoirs.

The hearing will begin at 11 a. m. eastern standard time.

The report recommends that the authorized "Red River below Denison Dam" project be modified by the reduction of the flood control storage capacity in the authorized Millwood Reservoir by about 25 per cent, and by the addition of six dams and reservoirs in the Little River Basin, upstream from the Millwood site.

The six additional reservoirs, the general location, and the stream on which located are as follows: Pine Creek Reservoir, Wright City, Okla.; Little River, Lukfata Reservoir, Glover, Okla.; Glover Creek, Broken Bow Reservoir, Broken Bow, Okla.; Mountain Fork River, De Queen, Rosebush, De Queen, Ark.; Rolling Fork River, Gilliam Reservoir, Gilliam, Ark.; Cossatot River, and Dierks Reservoir, Dierks, Ark.; Saline River, Dierks, Ark.

The estimated first cost to the United States of the recommended project, modification is $56,955,000, or $645,000 more than the first cost of the Millwood project as now authorized.

Recommendation for construction of the modified project is subject to the provision that local interests shall be required to contribute all costs for the provision of water supply storage in the six upstream reservoirs on the basis of costs allocated to water supply purposes of each reservoir and in addition, as a further requirement of local cooperation share in the first costs of those reservoirs in the amounts of the local shares of the flood control portions thereof determined on the basis of net returns from higher utilization of downstream valley lands by providing cash contributions, so estimated for each reservoir.

The costs of local interests for complying with this program are estimated, on the basis of 1955 prices, to be of the order of $38,059,000 and $2,281,000 for first costs in the interests of water supply and flood control, and of the order of $265,000 annually for operation and maintenance.

The report makes the further recommendation that the upstream reservoirs be constructed concurrently with Millwood Dam and Reservoir, and if upstream interests should be delayed in raising their money, the construction of Millwood should proceed at the earliest practicable time.

Reasons for and against the inclusion of water supply in Millwood will be presented at the Washington meeting.

Alabama to Pay Off Carpetbag Bonds of 1876

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—After 80 long and costly years, the state of Alabama makes the final payment this year on the old "Carpetbag" Bonds issued in 1876 to satisfy postwar debts.

The bonds could have been paid off years ago, but they were non-callable securities maturing in July 1956. Non-callable bonds cannot be retired until the date of maturity, so the interest goes on and on.

Some of the debt goes back more than a century to the failure of state banks, but most of the obligations piled up between 1869 and 1876 in the reconstruction days following the war between the states.

The original "Carpetbag" Bonds were so named because of the northern carpetbaggers who settled in Alabama after the war.

The state budget officer James V. Jordan, who has traced the history of the bonds, said the state has paid $16,510,180 in interest since 1906 when the original securities matured and were refunded.

How much the interest cost in the 30 years before 1906 hasn't been computed, but Jordan said it might equal the total paid since then because the original indebtedness was greater and the interest payments naturally higher.

Through the years, first one governor and then another set aside a total of $857,000 in a sinking fund to retire the bonds when they fell due.

Then in 1947, the Legislature in submitting a constitutional amendment to use the income tax surplus for schools set aside enough to pay off the bonds, and interest, when they matured this year. Because they were non-callable, they couldn't be taken up at that time.

With the $1,856,000 already set aside, the legislature put another $8,700,000 for a total sinking fund of $8,557,000. That provided money to pay the principal on the bonds plus the interest for the remaining nine years.

The "Carpetbag" Bonds were issued after a debt commission created by the Legislature in 1874 compromised the state's debt at $8,409,600, although actually it amounted to more than 30 million.

Most of it accumulated during the reconstruction era, since the state owed only $8,800,000 when the carpetbaggers took control in 1868. While the bonds were still outstanding, former Gov. Thomas E. Kilby authorized another issue of $454,000 in 1920 on a 30-year basis. They were paid out in 1950.

Wife Held for Shooting Husband

SEARCY (AP)—A White County man was shot fatally at Judsonia last night and police here today were holding the victim's wife.

Sheriff Jack Price said Luther Chandler, who had been living at Pangburn, was struck twice by bullets from a .32 caliber pistol as he attempted to enter his wife's home.

Price said he was holding Mrs. Ielo Chandler, 52.

The sheriff said he was told the shooting occurred after two of Chandler's friends, Ralph Scott and Junior Dale Houston, drove Chandler from Pangburn to his wife's home at Judsonia.

Price said Chandler was shot once in the right arm after he had broken out a glass window in the front door of the house and reached inside to unlock the door. He said Chandler was wounded in the chest as he entered the house.

The victim died a short time later at a Searcy hospital.

Price quoted Mrs. Chandler as saying she had warned her husband to leave several times before the shooting.

No charges have been filed.

Israel Parade Headed by French Jets

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Twelve French-type Ouragan jet planes spearheaded an air parade of Israel's military strength at Independence Day celebrations in Haifa today.

Highly placed Israeli military sources indicated yesterday, would somewhat balance Egypt's acquisition of Soviet MIG15 jets from Czechoslovakia.

The Ouragans, never displayed publicly in Israel before, along with British-made Meteor jets, took part in the aviation section of a two-hour military parade reviewed by President Izhak Ben-Zvi, Premier David Ben-Gurion, Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, army chief of staff, and thousands of spectators.

The show marked Israel's eighth anniversary as an independent Jewish state at a moment when many fear some shot across the troubled frontiers might set off a second round of war with the Arab states.

so inflated that when I hit someone I could hardly keep from screaming.

"I went to work building up the muscles in my left. Took a year. I worked until I could hold a 10-ounce dumbbell in my left at arm's length for half an hour—yes, only 10 ounces, but try it sometime—then go on and jab the bag a thousand times."

Tommy, who at 53 keeps his weight to a trim 193 pounds by working out five times a week and eating only two meals a day, looked down at the two shirred eggs on his luncheon plate and said:

"Any fighter could do what I did. But they don't train as they did in the old days. Life has become too comfortable. What has ruined more fighters than anything? It's the primrose path—taking the easy way."

Currently, sugar broker Loughran is eating some pleasant extra sugar by helping publicize a Columbia picture, "The Harder They Fall."

Some scribes have expressed fear that the film, which shows how a racketeering gambler built a mild 7-foot South American giant into a heavyweight championship contender in a series of fixed fights, might kill boxing.

Loughran, who was outpawped himself by an amiable Alp named Primo Carnera when the Alp held the big title, said:

"That is nonsense. There is no more dishonesty in boxing than there is in any other profession. Boxing is no worse now than it was in the old days. There's an element of badness in everything. If that would kill boxing, it would have killed it long ago."

"I was approached dozens of times to throw a match, but my manager the late Joe Smith, would never consider a thing like that—and that's all there was to it."

Tommy does feel the boxing industry suffers now from poor promotion—too much dependence on TV—and monopoly moves by fight managers. He recognizes that young fighters are pushed ahead and outmatched to make a manager or a promoter a quick buck, but says that happened often in his time, too.

"It takes at least two years of actual fighting—35 or 40 fights—for a man to move into the championship contending class," he said. "By then he'll be boxing about as well as he's able to."

Loughran, who says he always got more personal pleasure out of "frustrating an opponent" than belting him, divides the field into fighters, boxers and fighter-boxers.

He rates Jack Dempsey as the greatest fighter in his lifetime he never fought him; Mike Gibbons as the greatest boxer; and Harry Greb and Mickey Walker as the finest combination box-and-soc-

DOROTHY DIX

No Dens For This Happy Couple Ungrammatical Husband Widower Is Overanxious

Dear Dorothy Dix: Shortly before Christmas I cut an article of yours out of the paper and ever since have thought of writing you. It's taken quite a time, but here's my answer. The article was on the subject of "Separate Den for Mother."

I agree with you that Mother should have a den if Dad does, but why a den for either of them? I'm 73, my wife is 72 and we've been married for 37 years. Neither of us ever had a den or any other place where we could hide from each other.

When we first married I taught my wife that when I came home from work and the evening meal was ours together. Sometimes we go out, sometimes we read and talk. The happiness we share together is much more refreshing and healthful than spending the time separately in some den.

A HAPPY HUSBAND

Dear Happy Husband: If life could always be as uncomplicated and happy as yours is, I, too, would say, "Away with dens." I certainly would never advocate them simply as places for husband and wife to hide from each other.

However, as a refuge from the hustle and bustle of a domestic life that involves a large family, or a relatively quiet spot in which to do work that requires concentration, a den has its uses.

Your recipe for a happy marriage can't be improved upon. Those who have love and contentment, especially in later years, have everything. God bless you, and give you many more years of happiness.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband is a wonderful man, but his English is atrocious. He's intelligent and a high-school graduate, so his only excuse is habit. I married him for love and because of his fine qualities, never dreaming that this one fault would become so exasperating. How can I bring our children up to speak well when they constantly hear their father's sloppy speech?

C. M.: When a man has just one fault, even though it be as important as this, I think you'd be wise to overlook it. Does it occur to you that perhaps you, too, have an outstanding fault, artists.

But Rocky Marciano is the only fighter I ever saw who could take you out with one punch from either hand," he added. "Dempsey or Joe Louis—both great punchers—need several blows to finish a fellow off."

Tommy himself remains a hard man to tag with a glove or a phrase. He is pleasantly cautious, quietly religious.

"I always lived a conservative life," he said. "I never drank or smoked, or got married. I always, even as a young fellow, feared the possessiveness of women. But I think marriage is a beautiful thing—for the other guy."

wrote the comparatively brief opinion. Chief Justice Lee Seamer, whose son aided in preparation of the AP&L brief, disqualifies himself in the case.

Associate Justice Ed McFaddin delivered an opinion which he designated as "dissenting in part." McFaddin would have sent the case back to the Public Service Commission on one point. He said the commission had refused to consider an item of approximately 20 million dollars which in AP&L's accounting system had passed from "construction work in progress" to "plant account."

"I think the commission should have considered this item in deciding a fair rate of return for the foreseeable future," McFaddin wrote.

AP&L has 17 days from today to file a motion for a rehearing. If the court denies the expected motion for rehearing—and such motions are seldom granted—day's decision that becomes final. Only possible appeal by the company would be to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ocean Salt Spices Seen for Future

By ALTON L. BLSKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

DALLAS (AP)—Someday you may sprinkle your food with ocean salt to give yourself some vital spices of life and health.

"Spices" would be traces of minerals like iron, calcium, fluoride and iodine to ward off anemia, rickets, tooth decay and goiter.

Ocean salt is rich in these and more than 30 other minerals, besides the sodium chloride of pure table salt. These potentialities in sea salt were described today to the American Chemical Society in a report by Drs. Arnold Schaefer, Olaf Mickelsen, R. B. Ing, and the late M. R. Sandstead of the National Institute of Health and National Institute of Arthritis and Meabolic Diseases, U. S. Public Health Service, Bethesda, Md.

About 70 per cent of sea salt is sodium chloride or ordinary salt; the rest is traces of all the other minerals. Many people over the world eat only ocean salt.

Goiter, caused by lack of iodine, is virtually unknown among them. Rickets from lack of calcium is not common, even though many of these people don't get enough calcium in their foods. Many also avoid anemia from lack of iron because iron in sea salt, the scientists said.

People in some areas of India have far less tooth decay than children in Boston, yet their drinking water contains about the same amount of fluoride, credited with building teeth resistant to decay. The Indians may get their fluoride protection through sea salt, the report said.

The scientists cited a Rutgers University study which found that mice receiving sea salt gained more weight and appeared superior to pigs eating regular salt.

A successful process of preparing sea salt as a white, free-flowing material containing all the sea minerals was reported by J. A. McMillan, Jr. Trace Elements Corp., Kingsville, Tex., and Vernice C. Co., Inc. Chemical Company, Houston, Tex.

Zsa Zsa Would Keep Personal Life Secret

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—

"I like publicity about my career, but I have never wanted it about my personal life." So said Zsa Zsa Gabor, who then divulged such items as:

1. She knows less about me than Grace Kelly.

2. Her ex-boyfriend, Porfirio Rubirosa, was broken up by her engagement to Hal Hayes.

3. She started the romance with Hayes by asking him for a date. Despite what her critics claim, Zsa Zsa's pet hobby is not diamonds or men, but talking. She loves to talk, especially, she says, about her work. She was enthused about doing a matinee theater chore for NBC-TV this Thursday.

"I play a fabulously rich woman who has just bought her fifth husband; she is very unhappy." The garrulous Hungarian said, adding coyly: "I won't tell you who it's supposed to be."

But somehow the talk drifted to the men in her life and she made this comment:

"Actually, I know very little about men. I know less than Grace Kelly. Her own mother said in those newspaper articles that Grace had 17 boy friends. I never played the field. There have been only five men in my life." Noting a raised eyebrow, she

Accidents Fatal to Six Arkansans

By The Associated Press

A truck-train collision that took the lives of a man and his son at Dumas was the only fatal highway accident reported in Arkansas during the week that ended at midnight Sunday.

Six persons died in other accidents during the 7-day check period. J. M. Robertson, 34, of Dumas was killed instantly when his pickup truck and a train collided at a crossing at Dumas Wednesday. Robertson's 6-year-old son Jerry, who was riding with his father, died at a Dumas hospital about eight hours after the accident.

The week's fatality toll of eight was a big drop from the previous week's figure of 15. A 38-year-old Negro man, Jesse Clemons of Marked Tree, was stabbed fatally at a cafe in that northeast Arkansas city Saturday night. Police said another Marked Tree Negro, Junior Moore, 28, had admitted stabbing Clemons because of "trouble with him."

explained: "We were very rich in Hungary and my father was very strict. Partly because of this, I married the Turkish ambassador when I was only 16½. I lived with him for two years and then we were divorced. I came to this country and six months later I was married to Conrad Hilton. As soon as we were divorced, I married George Sanders. I was married to him for six years and then I started going with Rubie."

In the midst of the Rubirosa today came Hayes, wealthy contractor and Hollywood man — about town. Their romance started, Zsa Zsa said, when sister Eva invited her alone on a double-date to meet Eva's fiancé, Dr. John E. Williams. Eva warned: "You'll have to get a date for yourself; I don't want you to steal him."

Zsa Zsa hotly denied reports the Hayes engagement was all for publicity. "We are going to get married," she declared, "but I am not going to be rushed into it. I have had too many unhappy marriages. I must be sure this one will be the last."

MORGAN & LINDSEY

THE LONG BODY

by Helen McCloy

THE STORY: Cristina Lash is a woman of mystery. John Hazard left an envelope on which was written her name before his death ten days ago. The envelope was empty. Cristina apparently is a close friend of Malcolm Lash, John's son. To Alice Hazard, John's widow, Professor Lash denies that Cristina was his daughter, as she pretends to be. At the home of Byrd Cushing, Alice learns that Professor Lash was dismissed from his position at Blake College after a loyalty hearing.

CHAPTER VII

Byrd sighed. "Listen, Jeanie. A trial and a security hearing are not the same thing. A trial deals with something that has happened already. These security hearings try to determine something that may happen in the future. They're supposed to determine whether a man will or will not betray official secrets. These hearings aren't trials after the fact, they are guesses before the fact. For all we know, Lash may be the victim of a spiteful gossip."

"Well, he was fired, wasn't he?" retorted Jean.

"But not prosecuted," insisted Byrd. "So there was no legal evidence that he had done anything wrong."

"Maybe they didn't prosecute because they thought he was dying after the stroke," said Jean. "Or maybe there just wasn't enough evidence. But if Malcolm's father had a file marked Miss Lash, she was probably in it, too, and Malcolm's father was investigating her personally because he'd found out somehow that Malcolm was falling for her."

"John was so busy in May he wouldn't have had time to investigate anything personally," protested Alice.

"He might have made time if it concerned Malcolm," said Byrd. "I'll phone those people I know in Washington this evening. At least I can find out if John consulted any official files on the Lash case."

Alice rose. "Please don't any of you say anything to Malcolm until I have."

"I'll drive you home," Jean was saying.

Word Is Take Care of Your Hypothalamus

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

DALLAS (AP)—To control your weight, stop counting calories and take care of your hypothalamus, an authority on nutrition suggested today.

Regular exercise and wise choice of all nourishing foods are ways to do it, said Prof. Roger J. Williams, University of Texas biochemist, and president-elect of the American Chemical Society.

Your hypothalamus—beyond for short—is a vital area of the brain which is apparently one seat of "bodily wisdom" and automatic control mechanisms. The mechanism controlling appetite is probably located there, Dr. Williams said.

Some scientists also find evidence your hypothalamus is a switchboard of the emotions, translating ideas and emotions into physical effects through nerves and hormones. This complex area may also be the part of the brain that controls sleep, wakefulness.

Dr. Williams told of finding new evidence indicating that if the hypothalamus area is well-nourished in every way, then your mechanism controlling appetite will work properly.

CRUSHED TO DEATH
BAUXITE (AP)—Clinton Luther Morrison, 49, an oiler for Aluminum Co. of America, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a tractor at an Alcoa mine near here yesterday.

The widow, three sons and a daughter survive.

on her feet immediately.

Jean, in the car, was silent for a while and obviously uneasy. At last she said: "You know why I wanted to drive you home? I wanted to tell you something I couldn't say in front of Mother without frightening her unnecessarily. I think Cristina is . . . unbalanced, and this loyalty hearing that caused her father's stroke may have sent her over the borderline, so . . . she may be really dangerous now. I'd keep away from her if I were you. She must know you're not too keen on Malcolm's falling for her. Women feel those things."

"What makes you think she is unbalanced?"

"She never had anything to do with anybody else at Blake. She was withdrawn, different. There must have been a reason. It wasn't healthy for a woman as full of vitality as she is to keep away from everyone else."

Alice didn't want to involve Jean, but the temptation was great for it was in Jean's power to resolve one of her doubts. "I'd like you to see Professor Lash."

"Why?"

Jean mustn't suspect that Alice doubted his identity—that would invalidate the test. "Just so you can tell me if he is greatly changed since his stroke."

Alice tried to forestall further discussion. "I'm tired, Jeanie. Let's not talk about this any more until we have more facts."

Jean's lower lip set stubbornly as a three-year-old's. "I'm going to say one more thing. I don't believe Malcolm's father fell off that cliff by accident."

"Oh?" It was a moan of pain. "Jeanie, dear, please don't speak or even think of . . . suicide." Her voice vibrated like a bell struck too harshly.

"I wasn't thinking of suicide." The words were wrenched from Jean's tight lips. "I was thinking of murder."

Alice stood alone in the obbing daylight, watching the little car seud down the drive, around a corner, out of sight.

Slowly she moved toward the front door. Malcolm was in the hall. His fair hair, his white shirt and slacks made him a streak of brightness against the somber background of oak paneling.

"Cristina's gone home," He smiled pinkly and moistly as a baby. "I'll have to change. She plays a smashing game."

"She does indeed." Suddenly Alice wasn't tired at all. "Malcolm, I have something to tell you, his afternoon I found an envelope in your father's desk. On it he had written: 'Papers Pertaining To Miss Lash.' Have you any idea why he should have collected papers about your friend, Cristina?"

"No." Malcolm's voice was blank. "What were the papers?"

"I don't know. The envelope was empty when I found it and yet—it was in a locked drawer. What do you know about Cristina?"

"You mean what do I know against her, don't you?" Malcolm's face hardened. "The answer is nothing. I'm not in the habit of calling in the FBI for a spot check every time I meet an attractive woman. Neither are you."

Alice sat down on the bench by the front door and looked at her son steadily. "Did you know that Cristina's father was dismissed from Blake because he was considered a bad security risk?"

Malcolm was restless under her gaze. "Everybody knows that. The shock brought on his stroke. The whole thing was monstrously unfair."

State Bypassed by Tornadoes

By The Associated Press

Arkansas virtually was untouched by the tornadoes and violent thunderstorms that ripped through the South and southwest over the weekend.

The state was under tornado and severe storm alerts for 24 hours beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday. The fourth and final warning expired without any serious damage early Sunday evening.

A hail storm which lasted only a few minutes caused minor damage to automobiles and roofs in northeast Garland County early Sunday.

The turbulent weather apparently grew worse after it left Arkansas and moved eastward. Hardest hit was a rural community near Birmingham, Ala., where at least 21 persons were killed and about 100 injured.

The rapidly moving cool front that brought the squall line also caused a sharp dip in Arkansas temperatures. Readings in the 30s and 40s were expected last night with maximums in the 60s forecast for today.

Forty inches of snow fell at Calumet, Mich. in January, 1953, 1953 car.

SAVED PENNIES

CHICAGO (UP)—Henry W. Rusiewicz saved his pennies for four years and bought a new car with 227,500 pennies plus 1953 car.

Around The World

DUBLIN (UP) — Irish Nationalists who stole a French master-piece painting from London's Tate gallery last week announced today that both painting and culprits are now safely out of England.

The men and the $25,000 painting, "The Day After Tomorrow" by the impressionist Berthe Morisot were sneaked past one of the tightest police cordons in history yesterday, the National Students Council reported.

The picture and other belonging to the Lane collection are claimed by both Britain and the Irish National Gallery in Dublin in a dispute over two bequests.

KYOTO, Japan (UP) — Dr. Hidetaka Yukawa, Nobel Prize winning physicist, said Sunday he wanted to resign from Japan's Atomic Energy commission to avoid involvement in political disputes.

Yukawa, who won the Nobel prize for physics in 1949, told Japanese newsmen that he wished to devote himself entirely to research.

The Japanese scientist criticized Japan for its impatience in wanting an atomic reactor and expressed fear that the nation would ignore fundamental research in atomic energy.
